

Who are the Kids on the Block?

The Kids on the Block are...

- life-size puppets that look and act like real kids.
- part of a successful education program that teaches children about real-life topics, such as prejudice, differences, disabilities, diversity and other social concerns.

Kids on the Block presentations consist of...

- powerful and attention-getting scripts.
- question and answer sessions that help keep children interested as well as involved.
- interactive simulations for youth to experience different challenges.

The Kids on the Block program encourages children to learn positive attitudes toward others and to increase their awareness, sensitivity and acceptance of differences.
